- When choosing to ferry your aircraft, he advises owners to request bids from a number of ferry providers and review their bids using the checklist he provides in the article.
- Michael also reminds aircraft owners that moving their new plane requires planning, good communications and expertise. Selecting the right provider will mitigate some of the unknown hurdles and help save money.

Customer Story Spotlight

In February, Paramount was approached by a customer who needed to move 3 aircraft simultaneously from Shannon, Ireland to Tampa, Florida. Paramount began planning the aircraft movement and scheduling crews. Then two weeks before the flights were scheduled, the customer moved the launch date up a week. Everything needed to be rebooked and scheduled. Paramount's Ferry and Flight Support division are experienced and adjust quickly to changing requirements, so they were able to meet the early launch date and receive RVSM authorization on such short notice. Our customer is pleased with Paramount's flexibility and has even more confidence in our ability to meet their scheduling needs.
